Coins and medals are sold at so much per piece, U. S. proof sets excepted. You cannot bid for one piece in a lot. If a lot contains ten pieces, and you desire to offer $2 for it, make your bid 20c. The auctioneer will accept an advance of 1 cent up to 50c., then 5c. up to $2.50, when 10c. is the limit, up to $10, and thereafter not less than 25c. Hence any bid up to 50c. can be entertained, but after that the bid must be 55c., 60c., and so on. Such offers as 53c., $1.01, and all intermediate figures are unavailable.

My terms for buying are 10%, and I make no charge less than 25 cents.

PREFACE.

To the collector who formed his cabinet fifty years ago, the coin-market offered opportunities, the memory of which, as one recalls them to-day, arouses a mingled feeling, where it is hard to decide whether wonder or regret claims the stronger place. To a connoisseur desirous of adding to his treasures, then,

"The world was all before him, where to choose:"

and numismatic prizes were readily to be obtained by one who was skillful in finding their haunts, or wise enough to know the value of what he found. And when one of the collections formed in those vanished days makes its appearance in the modern auction room, the veteran is fain to utter the Arabic proverb, "The remembrance of youth is a sigh." Regret at lost opportunities lifts itself above his surprise, and like Banquo's ghost, refuses to down at his bidding.

The collection, of which Part One is catalogued on the following pages, was formed in the palmy days to which I have alluded. No such opportunity for obtaining a selection from choice pieces of the character of those it contains, has been offered for a long period; it is one which tells its own attractive story; it needs no exploitation from the dealer. It was gathered fifty years ago, by a gentleman thoroughly conversant with the subject, who on his frequent visits to Europe was ever on the watch for gems for his cabinet; returning from one of his journeys he embarked on the ill-fated "Arctic," which was lost at sea, as is well known; his latest purchases shared the fate of their owner. There remained however a choice collection brought together before he had sailed for the Continent on his last voyage, and among them will be noted numerous pieces which modern collectors, however willing to pay a high price, have found it extremely difficult, or almost impossible, to obtain.

Special attention might be called to the quaint mediaeval crowns, thalers, etc., struck by the German princes of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and other coins of that class, of which the reader will find between three and four hundred examples catalogued; but here again I prefer to let the pieces tell their own story. In most cases their names alone will be a sufficient temptation, silent yet strong enough to induce the lovers of these remarkable coins to enter into the competition for their possession.

Finally, an indirect testimony to the value of this collection — more particularly as what is missing in the United States series — may be found in a recent publication of the University of Pennsylvania, where are listed the pieces which they did not previously possess, but which have been recently presented to them from this cabinet by Mrs. William H. Miller.

It is doubtful if another opportunity like this will be within reach of judicious buyers for years to come, and to such I commend the motto of the wise old Roman, — "CARPE DIEM," or to use the more familiar vernacular, "Improve the shining hour."
